How to reach ABV IITM Gwalior:

Rail: Gwalior Junction is among those few stations that is served by both broad gauge and narrow gauge railway lines. This junction station serves as a link to five directions: Agra, Jhansi, Shivpuri, Bhind, and Sheopur Kalan. All except Sheopur Kalan have broad gauge access with Gwalior. Though there are few direct trains connecting this city to Delhi, Chennai, Kolkata, and Mumbai, Gwalior falls en-route on Delhi-Chennai, and Delhi-Mumbai trains. Bhopal - New Delhi Shatabdi Express and Chennai - Delhi Rajdhani Express pass through Gwalior junction.

Trains between Gwalior and New Delhi/ Delhi - Jabalpur Nizamuddin Express, Nizamuddin Link Express, Nizamuddin Express, Grand Trunk Express, Goa Express, Tamil Nadu Express, Bhopal Express, Gondwana Express, Ujjaini Express, Mahakaushal Express, Karnataka Express, Kerala Express, Sachkhand Express, Utkal Express, Jhelum Express, Panch Valley Express, Punjab Mail, Chattisgarh Express, Patalkot Express, and Malwa Express connect Gwalior to Delhi. Bhopal - New Delhi Shatabdi Express and Chennai - Apart from these daily trains there are several trains that operate on certain days of a week. Journeys between Gwalior and New Delhi/ Delhi takes about six or seven hours.

Trains connecting Gwalior to Mumbai - Amritsar Lokmanya Tilak Express, Punjab Mail, and Mangala Lakshadweep Express are daily trains connecting Gwalior to Mumbai. It takes a little over 24 hours to travel this distance of approximately 1500km.

Trains connecting Gwalior to Chennai - Tamil Nadu Express and G.T. Express are daily trains operating between these two cities. In addition, Andaman Express plying three days a week, and Dehra Dun Madurai Express operating weekly are two other trains connecting Gwalior and Chennai. Chennai - New Delhi Rajdhani also connects Gwalior to both Delhi and Chennai. Travelling time between these two stations about 1850km distant is approximately 30 hours.

Apart from these four metropolitan cities Gwalior is well connected with Agra, Kanpur, Allahabad, Varanasi, Jhansi, Bhopal, Indore and Nagpur.

Roads - Roadway accessibility of Gwalior to other parts of India is excellent. National Highway (NH) 3 connecting Agra and Mumbai, and NH 75 connecting Gwalior and Parsora in Odhisa are the main interstate highways of this city. NH 3 originates in Agra and passes through Dhaulpur, Gwalior, Indore, Nasik, and Thane before terminating in Mumbai. NH 75 begins from Gwalior and stretches upto Parsora via Jhansi, Panna, Satna, Daltonganj, Ranchi, Chakradharpur, and Chaibasa.

Air - Gwalior city is served by Rajmata Vijaye Raje Scindia airport. There are flights from Mumbai. Within the city, tempos and auto rickshaws are the main modes of conveyance. These tempos and auto rickshaws could be hired completely or ridden on shared basis. They ply throughout the city and even to adjoining areas.

ABV-IIITM is about 7 km from Gwalior railway station and about 12 km from city airport. Auto rickshaws and tempos are available from railway station to institute campus. From airport you could hire cabs or auto-rickshaws. The institute has its own bus service for carrying passengers to and from the institute to important locations of the city.

Where to Report:

Once you reach ABV-IIITM campus, your auto rickshaw/taxi driver will be needed to make an entry in the register to enter into the campus; you need to mention at this point that you are an ACM ICPC participant, and the security personal will guide you to the Hospitality/Registration desk. Once your vehicle reaches the Hospitality/Registration desk, please ask the driver to stay for few more minutes to reach the exact hostel/ residential location.

Note:

- ACM ICPC India-Final Site will provide accommodation and food (of our choice) to all the contestants and coaches from December 29, 2016 (4:00PM) to December 31, 2016 (9:00AM). Registration will start from December 29, 2016 (4:00 PM)
- Gwalior will be moderately cold during the month of December. Therefore, it is suggested that you equip yourself with winter clothing and shoes.
